Age: 25

Hometown: Colchester, Connecticut

Current job: Dancer for Gallium Dance

Bio: Genna Baroni grew up in Colchester, Connecticut, the youngest in a family of 4. She began jazzing and tapping at Doreen's Dance Center as a curious and ambitious 5 year old. 11 years later Genna began studying at Eastern Connecticut Ballet and then The University of the Arts to pursue a professional career in dance. She earned a BFA in Ballet Performance in May of 2009. While attending college in Philadelphia she discovered her love of teaching and caring for children. Genna has taught and looked after a diverse group of children ranging from infants to young teenagers all with different skills, personalities, and needs.

"I enjoy working with children because they inspire me to be a more creative, gentle, and understanding person. I enjoy being a part of their learning process and watching them develop colorful imaginations, quirks, and problem solving skills."

In September, Genna moved to NYC to work with Gallim Dance Company and continue to grow and serve as a childcare provider. She feels honored to be represented by Creative Sitters and is thrilled to have the opportunity to meet some wonderful new faces.
